

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

June 14, 2021

Contact: Julia Selker

Email: jsselker@bcse.org

Cell: 541-908-5792

Clean Energy Coalition Contributes to Securities and Exchange Commission Work on ESG Disclosures

Washington, DC – The Business Council for Sustainable Energy (BCSE) submitted comments to the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) in response to their Request for Public Input on Environmental, Social and Governance \(“ESG”\) and climate change disclosures.

“ESG disclosure is top of mind for many investors, especially in the energy sector,” said BCSE President Lisa Jacobson. “The BCSE applauds the leadership of the SEC in working to develop standards for ESG and climate disclosures, and for seeking stakeholder input. The development of transparent and actionable reporting methodologies will help investors make informed decisions and help more companies begin to actively report on ESG and climate change risks to investors. BCSE members have deep experience with ESG and climate change-related disclosures and appreciate the opportunity to share input as the SEC develops its approach.”

For additional detail, please see the BCSE’s input to the SEC here.

###

About the Business Council for Sustainable Energy: BCSE is a coalition of companies and trade associations from the energy efficiency, natural gas and renewable energy sectors, and also includes investor-owned utilities, public power, independent power producers, project developers, equipment manufacturers, and environmental and energy market service providers. Established in 1992, the Council advocates for policies that expand the use of commercially-available clean energy technologies, products and services.

For more information on the Council, please visit www.bcse.org. For the latest industry data, download the Sustainable Energy in America Factbook.