BCSE Statement on U.S. Pledge to Double International Climate Finance by 2024

Statement from BCSE President Lisa Jacobson

“The BCSE commends President Biden’s pledge before the UN General Assembly today to redouble the U.S. contribution to international climate finance.

“We must make sure that our investments at home and abroad will help us achieve our mitigation goals, enable a sustainable economic recovery and strengthen resilience against the impacts of climate change.

“The BCSE supports the United States’ renewed financial commitment to international development and climate protection. These investments will increase opportunities for U.S. companies to deploy American clean energy and climate solutions around the world, supporting new jobs and technology innovation.”
